These are the opening lines to Kitto the fourth in the Tyack and Frayne Mysteries and an example of why I love this author's work so much. There is no word, metaphor or adjective that is extraneous to the final result. Her words not only invoke location but season and the atmosphere that will pervade the story.

So far, the Tyack & Frayne books are my favorites and Kitto, to date (I've just finished book 5) is my top read. The mystery story engaged me, kept me absolutely caught until I finished. As always, I absolutely adore Lee & Gideon's relationship - it's real, with all the fuss, bother, arguments and utter love of real life.

Kitto is a young man who ran away from home and only came back after hearing his brother was in dire threat of turning his kids over to his father and did not want to happen. Now I really did not understand why he ran away I personally did not hear the reason. On returning home his fathers throws him into a basement and locks him.
