Sexual sin is powerful and destructive, so it makes sense that a loving God would want to keep us safe. Paul, in Colossians 3:5-8, recognizes the importance of strong rules about sex for believers, because sexual sins have the power to disrupt and destroy the church. Sins involving sex are not innocent dabblings in forbidden pleasures, as is so ...

If "satisfying sexual desire" means, "the desire achieves its goal" (which is sexual fulfillment), satisfying sexual desire by a particular activity would be sufficient for that activity to be sexual, but the definition becomes circular. The criterion of sexual desire, then, does not succeed in defining "sexual act".

One of the most common topics dominant men want to talk to me about are the rules for their submissive, more specifically what rules to create, what rules to avoid, and how to enforce them. The entire concept of the D/s dynamic is a relationship built around a ruleset. Some of these rules are inherent [...]

How to be a Dom: Orders and Rules

To examine sexual desire is one of the greatest sins in America, especially when it goes against the dominant narrative that women don't — or at least shouldn't — want sex as much as men do. Teaching people how to talk about sex — navigating the worlds of consent and pleasure — makes the social conservatives get up in arms.
